

Kabbage named one of the Best Places to Work in the U.S. for 2017

Company ranked 28th among small and medium companies through the Glassdoor Employees' Choice Award program

ATLANTA – December 7, 2016 — Kabbage[®], a pioneering financial services technology and data platform, earned its first [Glassdoor[®] Employees' Choice Award](#), ranking 28th on the Best Places to Work list for employers with fewer than 1,000 employees.

Now in its ninth year, the program selects winners based on feedback employees have shared throughout the past year about their jobs, work environments and companies. Employees complete an anonymous review that captures their overall satisfaction as well as qualitative insights into the best reasons to work at the company.

“We’re especially proud of this recognition because it comes directly from the people who have made Kabbage an incredible company,” said Amy Zimmerman, Head of People Operations for Kabbage. “We believe maintaining a great culture is a shared responsibility. Earning this award confirms that in addition to Kabbage’s tangible benefits, our team members appreciate our core values of transparency, innovation and caring deeply.”

To be considered for the small and medium company category, a company must have fewer than 1,000 employees and have received at least 25 company reviews from U.S.-based team members during the period of eligibility. The final list is compiled based on Glassdoor’s proprietary algorithm, which considers quantity, quality and consistency of reviews.

“We’ve been fortunate to attract some of the brightest and most innovative professionals in the industry, and we owe a tremendous amount of Kabbage’s success to our people,” said Rob Frohwein, co-founder and CEO of Kabbage. “When we have the right team members in place and create an environment where they can thrive, we’re well positioned to advance financial technology that empowers small businesses globally.”
